AN EDUCATOR ON WORLD PROBLEMS

WITH OTHER EDITORS

A truly great educator influences the lives of many hundreds. Would that great educators influenced still greater numbers. One of the greatest ever to enchant and enlighten youth in Virginia was Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell.

Now eighty-two years of age, Dr. Mitchell gave inspiration to many generations of students at the University of Richmond. We have just come across a copy of an address he delivered Aug. 31, 1945, at a Joint alumni-alumnae dinner in his honor. It shows that his brilliant mind is alert, keen and penetrating as ever. Witness the following excerpts from that address:

"My life has been pivoted on friendship. What is the greatest experience ever written? Three short words: 'And it came.' The essence of my experience of eighty-two years is, life's love. In spite of the fact that hate has dominated our age, I recognize love as the supreme force in our world.

"You called me from a cove in the mountains of North Carolina, fenced individualism rules there. If formed Presidential tickets should stroll into such a cove, he would think himself in heaven. To the people in one of those coves, you are a long way from center. Every man is independent and every home is self-contained.

"Togetherness marks your life, I find, upon my return to civilization. You draw your water from a common reservoir. The Tennessee Valley Authority is the most significant thing taking place in North America. Cooperation is the key to all your activities. Such is the contrast today.

"The two world wars are known. The battlefields are marked, But back of these wars is a revolution coursing like a volcanic force through society. This revolution defies definition. But it seems to be primarily economic and social. A few facts begin to appear. What are some of the trends?

"There is an attempt to reconcile political liberty and economic security. We have prized liberty since magna carta. But millions of people in Europe today think more of bread than the ballot. What a man is out of work, he is out of home, out of heart, and out of class. To him a ballot means little. What he wants is work. Such is the plight of the masses today.

"There have been three stages in human progress.

First, the land-state. The landowner was a lord. He owned both the land and the serfs who lived on the soil. Feudalism, we call it.

Secondly, there rose the Middle Class, whose power was based on money. In 1789, in the French Revolution it overthrew the nobles, and has since been dominant in the western world.

"Thirdly, there is emerging a new society based on work. As Adam Smith wrote for the guidance of the rising Middle Class in his 'Wealth of Nations' in 1776 (in response to Jefferson's Declaration of Independence), Karl Marx proclaimed the advent of the Welfare-State in his Communist Manifesto, in 1848. Lenin embodied this idea in 1917 in Russia. Socialism has swept Europe.

"The aim of the Truman Doctrine is to arm Greece and Turkey against this movement of revolt. We can combat these trends only by making democracy work. This means no slums, no depressions such as October, 1929, no lynchings and no monopoly capitalism. In a word, political liberty must be combined with economic security. The common man must have both the ballot and bread.

"Again, we are trying to reconcile private enterprise with community control. Here community is an elastic word. It may refer to a city, a county, a state, or a nation. Both free enterprise and community activity are essential. Both contain truth. We are to unite them in a statesman-like adjustment. This is the burning issue in our time. We shall solve it, just as we linked localism and nationalism."

Undoubtedly, Dr. Mitchell has correctly identified some of our most vexing problems.

BRAINS ARE NO HANDICAP

(From Winchester Star)

Folklore dies hard, so it isn't likely that the facts about child prodigies will catch up with popular delusions on the subject for a few generations yet. But a 25-year study of bright children by Dr. Lewis Terman, the Stanford intelligence-test expert, seems to prove that being a prodigy is really no disadvantage.

In 1921 Terman began to study 1,000 children whose IQs were 140 or higher. (At 10 they would have at least the intelligence of the average 14-year-old; their intelligence was in the top 1 per cent.) Too, kids have grown up; their average is now 35. They are old enough to be delivered Aug. 31, 1972, at a Joint alumni-alumnae dinner in his honor. It shows that his brilliant mind is alert, keen and penetrating as ever. Witness the following excerpts from that address:

COLGATE DARDEN GOES TO WORK

(The Salem Times-Register)

After far too many years of indifference, Virginians can start pulling in the direction of Charlottesville again. For without much fanfare Colgate Darden took over the reins at the University of Virginia not so long ago and whatever the outcome of his grim determination to pump a little more real life into Mr.Jefferson's dream baby, some relay battles are sure to ensue.

Mr. Darden is far too smart to provoke any palace revolutions at the outset. He has made the rather quiet statement that students who attempted to abuse their freedom in the future, as they have in the past to the detriment of the school, will be handed their walking papers so fast it will make their heads swim.

He has also announced his resolve to tour every high school in the state in an effort to interest more high quality Virginians to pursue their higher education at the University. If he succeeds it will be a great victory, for in the past the state, which the University was designed to serve has suffered at the expense of preserving a truly cosmopolitan institution.

The battle has begun without much bloodshed. If the ex-governor is able to overcome the inertia engendered on the Lawn, he will have performed an even greater service to his state than during his five years as the chief executive.

QUESTION BOX

Verdugo City: Please define and pronounce the word "quasi."—G. B.

Answer: Quasi is Latin and means "as if." In English, it is used in the meaning, "as if it were; seemingly; resembling somewhat." Rhyme the second syllable with "by, my," thus: KWAY-sy. Second choice: KWAH-see.

* * *

St. Louis: Which is correct: News (is? are?) scarce?—Mrs. M. O.

Answer: Although plural in form, the word news is always singular. Correct: News is scarce

* * *

San Diego: How should one pronounce the word "bourgeois," meaning "middle class"?—W. F. H.

Answer: This is a French loan word. The English pronunciation is like the French: Say: boor-ZHWA, the "A" almost as flat as in "wag." The noun "bourgeoisie" means "middle class people collectively; a society dominated by the middle class." Pronounce it: boor-zhwa-ZEE.

* * *

Atlantic Highland: Which is correct: "In memorium" or "In memoriam"?—M. S.

Answer: The correct Latin phrase is: "In memoriam." It means "In memory (of)." It is used in inscriptions, on floral wreaths, etc. It is often erroneously spelled "-rium."

* * *

Rochester: Which is the correct past tense of "spoil"—spoilt or spoiled?—Mrs. R. M.

Answer: The dictionaries show both. But "spoilt" is obsolescent. "Spoiled" is better American usage.

* * *

Los Angeles: Recently I said, "In my humble opinion," plainly pronouncing the "h." I was rebuked and told that it is now correct to say "umble." What's the good word, Pancho?—E. M. N.

Answer: Best usage pronounces the "h" in all such words as humble, human, huhor, humility. Public speakers especially should not drop the "h."

* * *

Berkeley: Am I wrong when I pronounce maritime as "mariteem"?—H. McL.

Answer: Sorry, yes. It has no sanction. The standard American pronunciation is: MAR-i-time, the third syllable rhyming with "dime, lime."

* * *

Dayton: Is Dennis Day the real name of Jack Benny's tenor soloist?—Mrs. C. J

Answer: Dennis Day was born in Brooklyn and christened Eugene Dennis McNulty.

CRITICAL PERIOD AHEAD FOR PEACH GROWERS

Elbertas - which comprise the main commercial peach crop in Virginia are entering the final swell stage, and Extension Service horticulturists warn growers that the critical period, during which the success or failure of the 1947 crop will be determined, lies ahead.

Fruit is especially susceptible to brown rot, the most destructive of all peach harvesting and marketing diseases, as the ripening period approaches and during the picking and shipping seasons, explains A. H. Teske, Extension horticulturist.

Growers are advised to keep a protective covering of wettable sulphur on the fruit and foliage from now until harvest time.

FLY POPULATION AT LOW LEVEL

With intensive campaigns against flies and household pests in several counties, and use of control measures general throughout the State, Virginia's insect population is at an all-time low, according to J. O. Rowell, entomologist for the Agricultural Extension Service.

Spraying with DDT has become an accepted practice with every "progressive" dairy farmer in Virginia, Rowell pointed out; and the summer slumps in milk production because of the fly menace is now non-existant.

Mermaid Magic

Hi. Sandwitch—Are you in the swim? Are you the Beach Belle who's always surrounded by big, bronzed muscle-men, or are you the Water Baby who's all wet? Do you stir up a tidal wave of "hubbas," or barely a ripple of interest? Well, whether you sink or swim on the beach depend on how good you are at Mermaid Magic.

Jacket Racket — Shorter - than - knee-length coats are the big favorites this year. We've seen them in denim with "Junk Heap" and "City Dump" embroidered on big patch pockets. We've seen jackets that look suspiciously like dad's shirt, stiffly starched, or like your own shortie night shirts. Lots of girls wear tailored smocks as beach coats; others applique designs on white.

Match Mates—What color is your suit? (There's so little of it this year that sometimes it's hard to tell.) Match it with the rims of your sun glasses, your ballet slippers and with the ribbons you braid into your hair.

Dunkable Braids—Just braid your hair and pin it, coronet fashion, over your head, as champ charmer Esther Williams does in the movies. You'll emerge from the water as neatly as you dove into it. It's a Tip for a Dip.

Gems for Jills

Every season has its special jewelry fads and fashions. Our Hi-Style Scouts report that lots of new ones have sprung up this summer. Here are the latest Gems for Jills.

Hoops, My Dear—What goes better with peasant blouses and dirndl skirts than gold or silver hoop earrings? The bigger the better to bring out the gypsy in you! For a touch of color, you sometimes paint them with bright nail polish.

Under Cover—Embroider a corsage of flowers on the upper left side of your white and it will show through your sheer white cotton peasant blouse. Or, cut out a flower design from some printed chintz and applique it on. Dainty does it every time.

TRIXIE TEEN SAYS—

It's a perfect summer day; the clouds are soft white puffs in blue sky and the sun gilds everything in sight, except your spirits! It's the time when every teen ought to be her happiest, but you look so gloomy you could haunt a house. Better check up on yourself. Have you been irritable around your family? Have you been unpleasant to your best friend? Have you been difficult with your O.A.O.? Well, no wonder you're as blue as the sky. Didn't you know that no one can be mean and happy, any more than an orange can be sour and sweet?

Brigadoon Plaid

As Scotch as heather are these brigadoon plaid slippers featured for back-to-school and fall wear. They're inspired by a Broadway show and come in two styles for misses and one for children. They are made of clan plaids in blue, brown or red. The butterfly vamp style is made for misses and the play shoe type for children.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Purity of Heart and Life

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 10—Psalms 24:1-5; 101:2; Matthew 5:8; James 1:13-15.

MEMORY SELECTION—Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.—Proverbs 4:23.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

IT IS well for us to face squarely such a topic as the one assigned. It is particularly necessary to review the biblical standards with regard to holiness of life, since today in which we live is so lowered conceptions.

You will probably remember the story of the celebrated artist who was renowned because of his ability to put on canvas colors of strong hue and great beauty. His secret was that sometimes it's hard to tell.) Match it with the rims of able gems of all colors. He would study the color of these gems carefully.

We need to spend time with the precious gems of the Word of God that we may clearly understand how he would have us live.

I. True Wisdom Involves the Fear of Jehovah (Prov. 2:1-5).

IN THE opening chapters of Proverbs, Wisdom is personified. Anyone who believes in Jesus Christ cannot help understanding something of his relationship to the dom. In him "are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" (Col. 2:3). To those of us who know him, he has been made unto us wisdom (I Cor. 1:30).

In this passage in Proverbs the point is that if we observe his commandments, if we incline our ears unto wisdom, if we apply our minds to understanding, if we long for discernment, as earnestly as we would seek for silver and hidden treasure, we shall understand the fear of the Lord and find the knowledge of God.

God will meet every individual who really wants to know him. Said our Lord, "If any man will do his will, he shall know . . ." (John 7:17).

II. True Wisdom Involves the Fear of Life (Prov. 2:10-17; 4:18-27; 5:1-4).

To truly know God is, of course, to be spared the heartaches which results from being deceived by sin and Satan. When wisdom enters the heart, the result is discretion and understanding (Prov. 2:10, 11). Thus God delivers us from the way of evil and from men that speak evil things (Prov. 2:12).

Attention should be given to the description of these evil men (Prov. verses 12-15; they speak perverse things; they forsake the path of uprightness; they walk in the ways of darkness; they rejoice to do evil; they delight in the perverseness of evil; their paths are crooked and wayward.

Deliverance from the strange woman is likewise vouchsafed us. We have true wisdom. The description of these women is infernal—flattering, forgetful of both the covenant and God; their lips drop honey, their mouths are smoother than oil.

Notice the conclusion of the matter: In the end they are bitter as wormwood, sharp as a two-edged sword, their feet go down to death, and their steps take hold on Sheol.

How much we need God's wisdom in this world. It is easy to be deceived.

III. True Wisdom Means Peace at the End (Prov. 4:18-27).

TO walk with God, to seek wisdom, is indeed as the dawning light, shining more and more unto the perfect day. If there were no other reward for living for God (and there are many, more than we realize), the benediction at death would be enough to cause a man to think seriously before we leave the ways of God.

IV. A Representative of True Wisdom (Prov. 31:10-12).

THIS passage describes the virtuous woman. She is indeed to be extolled. The worthy woman is the person of the Bible who is therefore wise, is in possession of above rubies.

V. Sin's History (James 1:13-15).

THE wise man, the man who seeks to be pure in heart and life, desires to understand something of the history of sin in his individual life.

Temptation here refers not primarily to a solicitation to evil, but does make trial of men (Gen. 22:1). but he does not dangle before them that which is evil in itself.

The history of personal evil is that because of our lust we are enticed. Thus when lust has conceived (that is to say, when we succumbed to the enticement to sin is born, and sin, when it is finished—but it is never finished, it goes on and on; no person on earth can arrest it—brings forth death.

Prosperity Termed Requisite to Peace

Savings Plan Cited as Guard for Postwar Economy.

DETROIT.—Stressing his belief that a healthy condition of prosperity in America is a vital prerequisite to world peace, Vernon L. Clark, assistant to the secretary of treasury, told a meeting of the Michigan Bankers association here that "if this country had been able to stay prosperous and powerful through the second decade after World War I, we might have kept the world out of the second war."

Clark, who is national director of the treasury's U. S. savings bond division, cited 19th century history to point out that, aside from minor wars, Europe remained at peace from the defeat of Napoleon in 1815 until the outbreak of hostilities in 1914.

"That 99-year peace was based upon production, trade, colonial development and pretty general prosperity," he explained.

"With our Allies, we put down the Kaiser in 1918 and then we quit, left Europe to its fate, let our own economy go boom and bust and by 1930 were in no shape to enforce or support peace."

He presaged a recurrence of those circumstances if the United States falls into the grip of another depression, adding that all our present efforts to extend food, money and credits to reinforce sagging foreign economies "will go for nothing" if we are unable to make the democratic system of private enterprise function without a major breakdown.

Underlining the necessity for continuing investments in U. S. savings bonds, Clark characterized the "American" as tending to be a problem in juvenile delinquency from the economic and political standpoints.

"Right now his economic future is spread out before him like an array of cakes and cookies in a bakery window. He wants to grab those and gorge himself. If he does, he will end up in the economic hospital and the economic jail, and he'll be a long time getting out," was Clark's graphic appraisal of the situation.

While not touting the U. S. savings bond program as a cure-all, Clark summed up its virtues thus: "It is a vital part of a pattern of common sense national debt management, personal money management and general economic management by which we can shape something better than the old pattern of 'from riches to rags' that every postwar period so far has followed."

Ex-G.I.s Climb Wall, Sleep in Palace Yard

LONDON.—A couple of ex-G.I. tourists looking for a place to sleep walked past a big grey building, and—

"Buckingham palace," murmured John L. Jensen, 24, Portland, Ore.

"Why not?" answered Wallace McCall, 22, also of Portland.

Buckingham palace is protected by an eight and one-half foot wall, but the Yanks climbed it, crawled into their sleeping bags, and went to sleep. They awakened to find themselves surrounded by three gardeners, two workmen, two policemen and a detective, who took them to Scotland Yard.

"The officials were very nice to us and let us go once we convinced them there were no bombs in our sleeping bags," said Jensen. A Scotland Yard official said, "It wouldn't have believed it possible. It has never happened before."

Building Activity In '47 to Fall Short of Other Records

NEW YORK. — Building activity in 1947 is expected to fall far short of past records despite the unprecedented housing shortage and the current long-term upward swing in the construction industry, the Institute of Life Insurance said.

The primary reason, the institute stated, is high construction costs which have priced new homes out of the mass market.

Little if any gain is expected in 1947, the institute continued, over the 671,000 new non-farm dwellings estimated to have been started in 1946, in view of the recent slowing down in new building.

The total, the institute added, would fall "far short of the 937,000 new nonfarm dwelling units started in 1925, the peak year of the home building boom of the 1920s. Each year from 1922 through 1928 more than 700,000 new non-farm dwelling units were begun."

Admiral Reveals Presence Of Russian Subs In Pacific

WASHINGTON. — Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, Pacific fleet commander, said Russia is operating a considerable number of submarines in the north Pacific.

Denfeld declined to estimate the size of Russia's Pacific navy. He expressed the opinion it included a "considerable number of submarines and some destroyers" but no aircraft carriers.

Denfeld recently returned from a flight to Australia, the purpose of which, he said, was to discuss in general terms the defense of the southwest Pacific.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1 Taken like a tonic, Cardui helps stimulate appetite, and digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before your period,* it may help relieve such pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

WE WANT TO REDUCE PRICES — YOU CAN HELP TOO

As a RETAILER of FOOD STUFFS we would like to see prices lowered where it would not be necessary for anyone to sacrifice good substancial food.

We can not make much of a reduction so long as WHOLESALE PRICES stay at their present level, but we will gladly pass on to you any savings that might be effected in reducing our operating costs. This can be done by increasing your purchases.

IT IS NEVER WISE TO BUY EXTRAVAGANTLY .. PLAN YOUR PURCHASES .. BUY TO MEET YOUR NEEDS.

Beginning Saturday, May 17th, and continuing until further notice, we will give you a 5% discount on all purchases of $10.00 and over.

FORD'S OUT FRONT WITH 4-STAR FEATURES

★ Pick Your Power . . . V-8 or Six

Only Ford in the low-priced field gives you this power-choice . . . with thrifty 4-ring pistons and balanced carburetion in both!

★ Those "King-Size" Brakes are Smooth

Ford's self-centering hydraulic brakes are the biggest in the low-priced field. They give you smooth, even, straight-line stops!

★ Relax on "Rest-Ride" Springs

Glide along on Ford's "Rest-ride" springs and the cushioned ride of those deep, soft seats and you'll think you're floating in a bubble.

★ Ford's a Honey for Looks!

Neat flowing lines have that longer, lower look. And Ford's two-tone, long-lived upholstery gives that roomy interior a true luxury air.
